Alfred Charles Parker (1906-1985), illustration for McCall's magazine, published 1958. Pen and ink and watercolor on drawing paper. Parker was an American artist and illustrator, founder of the modern glamour aesthetic who defined the progressive look of illustration from the 1940s through the '60s. Image from the Society of Illustrators Permanent Collection.