Russell Patterson (1896-1977), “Race track tout”, Pen and Ink and gouache. Russell Patterson was very influential as an illustrator. His art deco magazine illustrations helped develop and promote the idea of the 1920s and 1930s fashion style known as the flapper. Russell Patterson was inducted in the Society’s Hall of Fame in 2007. Image from the Society of Illustrators Permanent Collection.